Manifesta 15 Barcelona Open Call

Manifesta 15 reshapes the relations between art, culture and society by investigating and catalysing socio-ecological change in Europe whilst being in continuous dialogue with both local communities and international cultural producers. Throughout its recent editions, Manifesta has developed itself into an interdisciplinary platform which draws attention to the pressing issues of our time seen through the lens of the local Host Region.

For the 15th edition of the European Nomadic Biennial, which will be held in Barcelona and 11 cities in the metropolitan region, Manifesta 15 invites you to propose projects which present new, visionary approaches to the ecological transition that we are facing globally.

Manifesta 15 is selecting extraordinary venues across the metropolitan region which are symbolic of the thematic and conceptual approach of the edition and is looking to include new, local perspectives to the ever-changing socio-ecological fabric and histories of the region. Manifesta 15 therefore invites you to propose unconventional projects related to the visual arts, ecology, theatre, architecture, music and literature, which can help shape future visions of how the metropolitan region should be transformed in a more imaginative way.

Manifesta 15 invites you to think how culture is the key factor to shift the technical narratives of the climate emergency to a more imaginary language, which inspires all citizens to start acting.

Manifesta 15 invites you to make proposals that not only question the way we look at our metropolitan region but also offer innovative solutions, ideas and proposals to regenerate social cohesion.

Manifesta 15 is looking for individuals, groups, communities, institutions or associations to create an impactful experience for its visitors across 80 days (or longer).

Manifesta 15 is offering a variety of funding models ranging from 10.000 euros to 15.000 euros (including taxes and participant fees as described below) depending on the scale and complexity of the proposed project.

Manifesta 15's Open Call will be judged by a national and international Jury who will select 10 – 15 projects which will be included within the biennial programme.
